SKIDAWAY FARMS. INC.

Internet: www.skidawayfarms.net
email: Jane Kollmann at gardenher52@aol.com or Mike Welsh at welsh@umich.edu

Skidaway Farms, Inc. is a Georgia non-profit corporation originally formed under the auspices of Skidaway Audubon. The Farm rents plots and raised garden beds on an annual basis to any resident of Skidaway Island for the purpose of growing fruit, vegetables and flowers.

The Farm has irrigation for all beds. A double fence encloses the Farm; the outer fence is electrified at night, to keep deer and other animals out. A large open pavilion provides farmers a shaded area to relax while working their plots, and in which social events are held. There is a communal herb and flower garden. A few farmers keep bees that produce honey and help to pollinate the vegetable blossoms. Seminars are periodically held at the Farm, and experienced farmers are available to offer advice to people new to farming in Georgia.

The Children's Garden Program provides children with the opportunity to learn, under the guidance of experienced farmers, to grow their own vegetables and to experience being able to eat something they grew.

Children from nearby schools as well as gardening organizations are also hosted on outings to the Farm to learn about how they can grow their own vegetables and to see how our farm operates.

